Stay alert with quarterly workplace law updates presented by Jackson Lewis' Seattle attorneys

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security has substantially increased the number of I-9 inspections over the last several years, and employers have faced increasing fines. This 90-minute seminar will provide employers with the tools to limit the risk of I-9 compliance liability, including:

- Common mistakes employers make in completing their Form I-9s that expose them to potential DHS scrutiny and fines;
- Best practices when conducting voluntary audits of Form I-9s; and
- Practical solutions to manage the immigration compliance process.

Jackson Lewis reserves the right to refuse participation in the program to anyone other than a bona fide management representative
