Mitchell F. Boomer is the office managing principal in the Austin, Texas, office; and a principal in the San Francisco, California, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. Since joining the firm in 1992, he has represented employers in all areas of employment litigation, including wrongful termination, employment discrimination, retaliation, whistleblower, trade secret and unfair competition cases in federal and state courts in California, Washington and Nevada.

Mitch regularly advises clients on employee discipline, layoffs, reductions in force, human resource policies, leave management and disability matters. Mitch frequently addresses private industry groups on a variety of employment topics, including sexual harassment in the workplace, unfair competition, workplace violence, wage and hour law, preventive employee relations, disability and leave management, and current developments in federal and state labor and employment law.

Prior to entering private practice, he represented the United States government in numerous military courts-martial as a captain in the United States Army Judge Advocate General's Corp while also serving as a military liaison with the United States Attorney's Office in criminal and civil fraud prosecutions.
