In 2018, CEOs are compelled to compete in the ever expanding global economy and encounter many issues, like data security. Leaders in the manufacturing sector must face additional, unique challenges. Your customers constantly demand faster and better products for less cost. Alternatives are just a click away, putting unrelenting pressure on you to deliver innovation, leaner supply chains and world-class customer support.

This year's agenda is developed around your top priorities: honing your strategy with the latest trends in global markets and understanding how mid-market companies are exploiting new technologies like IoT and robotics.

Jackson Lewis Principals Edward Cherof and Michael Stief will lead a roundtable discussion titled "The State of the Unions: What Your Company Can Expect from the New Labor Board."
