An increasing number of states across the country are enacting requirements that mandate training of supervisors and employees in avoiding sexual harassment in the workplace. Will your state be next? How can multi-state employers ensure compliance? What preventive strategies can your company implement to stay ahead of the curve as you plan your training schedule for 2019?

Join Jackson Lewis P.C. Principals Edward Cherof, Kelly Gemelli, and Christopher Valentino for this complimentary one-hour webinar as they discuss recent training requirements across the country and what they mean to your organization.
