

What's a Reasonable Accommodation During COVID-19?

Archived Details

June 8, 2020

10:00 AM - 11:00 AM PST

View Recording

Continuing education credit was offered for the live broadcast of this seminar. You cannot earn credit for watching the archived webinar.

Registration Fee: Complimentary

Credits

CLEPending
HRC1.0
SHRM1.0

NOTE: No CLE credit can be earned for watching recordings of past webinars.

California businesses are beginning to reopen and employers are creating new policies and protocols to protect both them and customers. Despite these efforts, many employees likely have concerns about returning to the workplace and complying with new social distancing and related safety protocols.

These issues are further complicated by California's stringent regulations and requirements when it comes to providing reasonable accommodations for employees with disabilities. Join us for a discussion on these issues and obtain guidance on longer-term solutions, as the State attempts to learn to coexist with the virus.

Topics:

- Handling of employees' requests not to return to the worksite
- Managing employees who are part of vulnerable populations
- PPE and potential disability accommodations
- Leaves of absence and paid leave requirements
- Local ordinances providing additional emergency paid sick leave

Contact Us for More Information

Please contact Luke Borda at Email.

Speakers

Gina M. Rocanova

Principal
San Francisco 415-394-9400
Email

Nicky Jatana

Principal
Los Angeles 213-630-8233
Email

Area of Focus

©2020 Jackson Lewis P.C. All rights reserved. Attorney Advertising. Prior results do not guarantee a similar outcome. No client-lawyer relationship has been established by the posting or viewing of information on this website.

*The National Operations Center serves as the firm's central administration hub and houses the firm's Facilities, Finance, Human Resources and Technology departments.