Claire E. Fyvolent is an associate in the Atlanta, Georgia, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. Her practice focuses on representing employers in workplace law matters, including discrimination and restrictive covenants as well as preventive advice and counseling.

Claire has had the unique experience of handling employment law matters in various capacities. During her time at Emory University School of Law, she interned at the Atlanta office of Jackson Lewis, she externed in the legal department of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in Atlanta, and she clerked for U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Georgia Chief Magistrate Judge Alan J. Baverman.

While attending law school, Claire enjoyed representing underserved youth in juvenile court proceedings as a student practitioner for Emory's Barton Juvenile Defender Clinic. Claire also was a member of Emory's Moot Court Society, serving as a competitor and coach on the Cardozo / BMI Entertainment Law team. As a competitor, Claire and her partner advanced to the final round where they argued in front of U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit Judge Denny Chin, U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York Judge Sanket J. Bulsara, and U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York Judge Ona T. Wang. Upon graduation, Claire received the Order of Emory Advocates for Outstanding Achievement in or Contribution to Excellence in Advocacy Activities Award.
