Diversity and inclusion, once identified as a US-specific concern, has now become a key global objective. This webinar will answer the questions below and provide best practices regarding global diversity and inclusion, and guidance to measure and enhance it.

- How does the concept of diversity and inclusion vary across regions?
- How can an employer obtain demographic and other data around the world to assist in measuring diversity without violating local employment laws and data privacy requirements?
- What legal and cultural limitations affect what we ask in individual countries?
