Tyler White is a Principal in the Jacksonville, Florida, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. He represents and counsels employers in the public and private sector on all aspects of employment-related issues.

Mr. White regularly represents employers in disputes, litigation, and arbitration involving trade secrets, non-competition agreements, non-disclosure agreements, wage hour allegations, and allegations of race, gender, national origin, disability, age, marital status, genetic information and religious discrimination. Mr. White also defends employers in cases involving allegations of defamation, sexual harassment, violations of Florida's Guns at Work law, and whistleblower and workers' compensation retaliation.

Mr. White assists employers in drafting employee handbooks and policy manuals, handling unemployment compensation appeals, and responding to Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and state and local agency charges of discrimination. He also guides employers through Department of Labor investigations involving allegations of unpaid overtime and minimum wages.

Mr. White is available to speak on a broad range of employment-related legal topics and has co-written presentations and lectured at many Breakfast Series events for the Jacksonville office of Jackson Lewis. Mr. White has co-presented on subjects such as: "Employment Law in a Virtual World" (October 2009); "The Holiday Party: Laughs, Libations and Liability" (November 2009); "Fearless Firing: Saying 'Goodbye' without a Courthouse Reunion" (March 2010); "Preparing an Effective Employee Handbook" (May 2010); and "A Ticking Time Bomb: Do Your Handbooks and Policies Violate the National Labor Relations Act?" (January 2013).

In addition to receiving his Juris Doctor, Mr. White completed further studies to earn a Certificate in Dispute Resolution from the Straus Institute at Pepperdine.
