

OSHA's COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing Emergency Temporary Standard

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has issued an Emergency Temporary Standard (ETS) covering employers with at least 100 employees.

Overview

On November 5, 2021, OSHA released an ETS that requires employers with at least 100 employees to adopt a vaccination policy that mandates employees to be fully vaccinated or submit to at least weekly testing. The ETS further requires employers to provide paid time off to recover from and receive the vaccine, and unvaccinated employees must wear a mask when in contact with coworkers.
