Patricia Matias is a principal in the Orange County, California, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. and is a co-leader of Jackson Lewis' Hispanic resource group.

Patty's broad base of experience gained through practicing employment law for over 15 years makes her a powerful advocate for her clients. She successfully defends employers in high-stakes, single-plaintiff litigation, including discrimination, harassment, retaliation, and wrongful termination matters, as well as in complex Private Attorneys General Act and class action matters.

In addition to litigation, Patty provides practical advice regarding personnel policies and decisions, performs workplace investigations, conducts audits, and provides management training. She regularly advises her clients on employment laws, such as those involving wage and hour compliance, leaves of absence, reasonable accommodations, and workplace investigations. Patty helps her clients navigate everchanging legal requirements in a manner that is business-oriented and focused on avoiding litigation and reducing risk while keeping her client's goals in mind. When advising her clients, she helps develop solutions and best practices that are tailored to business needs and reduce potential exposure.

In the pre-litigation and litigation stages, Patty thoroughly investigates and evaluates claims to best advise her clients on defense strategies. Through this approach, she has obtained early dismissals for her clients (including at the pre-litigation stage through walk-away agreements) and victories through motions (including motions for summary judgment) or at arbitration. Patty dedicates herself to delivering exceptional client service in an efficient manner and is strategic with investigations and discovery. She leverages legal technology and data to provide top-quality work that is cost-effective and efficient.

While Patty is an effective litigator, she also uses her honed advocacy skills to negotiate favorable settlements for her clients to avoid time-consuming and expensive litigation. She successfully negotiates settlements at all stages (pre-litigation or after discovery) through direct negotiations or mediations/settlement conferences. Patty most enjoys developing long-term partnerships with her clients to help them effectively manage their legal risk.
