Eden Moalem is an associate in the Nashville, Tennessee, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. focusing on employment law defense and has a strong foundation in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, and the Fair Labor Standards Act. She brings a dedicated and proactive approach to representing clients before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and the Tennessee Human Rights Commission (THRC).

Eden integrates her diverse background and multilingual skills, including fluency in French and conversational Hebrew, to offer comprehensive legal counsel to a varied client base. She earned her Juris Doctor from Tulane Law School in May of 2022, where she was actively involved in the International and Comparative Law Journal and the Alternative Dispute Resolution moot court team. Her international and comparative employment law experience reflects her commitment to providing nuanced legal advice.

Eden was admitted to practice in Louisiana in 2022 and in Tennessee in 2024. When not advocating for her clients, Eden enjoys contributing to the Nashville Jewish Federation and the Nashville Tulane Alumni Society, embodying the same dedication to service and community that she brings to her legal practice.
