Stephanie E. Satterfield is a principal in the Greenville, South Carolina, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. She is a member of the firm's Board of Directors and the National Practice Head of the firm's Compliance and Preventive Strategies. She represents employers in employment litigation and advises businesses on practices and policies to foster employee engagement and avoid litigation.

Stephanie has handled all aspects of employment law but focuses on pay equity, sexual harassment training, investigations, and litigation, reductions in force, and multi-state compliance for Fortune 500 companies in the retail, manufacturing, and pharmaceutical industries.

Stephanie served as a law clerk for Karen Johnson Williams of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit and Patrick Michael Duffy of the United States District Court for the District of South Carolina.

While attending law school, she served as articles editor of the North Carolina Law Review and received the James E. and Carolyn B. Davis Award for Character and Service.
