Anna Margolis is an associate in the Washington, D.C. Region office of Jackson Lewis P.C. Anna works to become an extension of employers' teams by developing legal strategies to meet specific business needs and maintaining clear, consistent communication through every stage of the litigation process.

She has represented employers in legal matters in federal and state courts and administrative proceedings, including defense against employment discrimination, wrongful discharge, harassment, retaliation and wage and hour claims. Anna also has experience enforcing non-compete and non-disclosure agreements and collaborates with employers to conduct internal investigations.

Employing a reasoned, preventative approach, Anna strives to put employers at ease while proactively mitigating legal risks and ensuring they remain in compliance with applicable federal and state regulations. Anna's keen attention to detail extends beyond her litigation work to include preventative advice and counseling on workplace needs such as policies and employee handbooks.

Workplace law has been a focus of Anna's practice since earning her law degree. While attending law school, Anna served as a Notes Editor for the Federal Circuit Bar Journal. Anna is a North Carolina native and has lived and worked in the D.C. metro region since 2010.
