Alexander Reganata is an associate in the Boston, Massachusetts, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. A team player, Alex places communication and collaboration paramount when advising employers looking to remain legally compliant while pursuing their business goals.

Alex appreciates that there is no one-size-fits-all approach to striking a balance between business and legal challenges and partners with employers to develop tailored strategies aligned with their needs and risk tolerance. Alex is tenacious in his representation of employers in single and multi-plaintiff cases in federal and state courts working toward resolving workplace litigation and then leveraging each matter to devise preventative solutions for the future. This approach includes advising employers on policies and conducting internal workplace investigations.
