Jessica Feinstein is a principal in the Omaha, Nebraska, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. She focuses her practice on representing U.S. and multinational companies in employment-based immigration preparing nonimmigrant and immigrant petitions. She also assists clients with due diligence related to I-9 and immigration compliance during a merger or acquisition.

Jessie has extensive experience preparing nonimmigrant visa petitions, including H1B, TN, L1, E, and H2B, as well as preparing employment-based permanent resident petitions. She also represents clients in I-9 worksite compliance and worksite investigations. This includes representing companies through an Immigration Customs Enforcement I-9 audit and conducting internal I-9 reviews to ensure compliance. Jessie provides training on nonimmigrant, immigrant and worksite compliance issues. She speaks nationally on immigration matters and has presented to the American Immigration Lawyers Association at its annual conference.

Prior to joining Jackson Lewis, she worked for four years at a prominent Omaha immigration firm.
