Kelly A. Walker is an associate in the Charlotte, North Carolina, office of Jackson Lewis P.C. Her practice focuses on representing employers in workplace law matters and litigation, including preventive advice and counseling.

Prior to joining Jackson Lewis, Kelly was an associate her first several years of practice at a plaintiff's firm. She later transitioned to a large regional firm representing employers, insurance carriers, and third-party administrators. Kelly represented clients in all stages of the litigation process, from initial evaluation through litigation, mediation, and appeal. It was here that Kelly discovered her passion for representing businesses, corporations, and carriers, to assist with exposure analysis and problem solving.

Kelly represents employers in a broad range of employment-related disputes and litigation, including claims brought under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the American with Disabilities Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and North Carolina's Retaliatory Employment Discrimination Act.

When she is not in the office, Kelly can be found trying out new local restaurants or attending different sporting events cheering on her North Carolina teams.
