The UNION FREE simulation program is designed to challenge even the most experienced labor professionals.

DID YOU KNOW?

- ▶ Union win rates in elections have been at historic levels over the past several years
- ▶ More targeted counter-strategies yield results
- ▶ Trends suggest the continuation of a more highly-focused labor movement

WHO SHOULD ATTEND: In-house counsel, managers, labor relations and human resource directors, senior executives and business owners. Regardless of your experience with union organizing and elections, this workshop will provide the strategies and tools you need to determine how to respond effectively and aggressively to labor organizing.

This Dynamic, Interactive Workshop Will Prepare You To:

- Address the unique strategic issues inherent in “quickie” elections
- Strategically align job classifications to argue for the most appropriate bargaining unit for the company in light of the changed standard of Specialty Healthcare
- Act preemptively in dealing with the Board’s new approach to joint employer status
- Identify and develop policy language that does not infringe upon employees’ rights to discuss terms and conditions of employment under Section 7 of the NLRA
- Respond to difficult and challenging employment issues in the middle of a union organizing drive
- Respond to national and international corporate campaigns, including union requests for card check/neutrality
- Address NLRB directives allowing union access to your property
- Address handbilling and picketing on or near your property
- Address employees that use blogs, podcasts and YouTube to broadcast messages in support of a union using your organization’s own computers
- Deal with the myriad issues which arise when your employees are communicating with each other – and with the union – through social media

LABOR SIMULATION

DAY 1

3:00 PM
to
6:00 PM

Jackson Lewis will conduct a simulated organizing campaign to challenge your leadership team.

This fast-paced, intense and challenging exercise will aid you in developing a keen understanding and awareness of how you might lawfully respond the first moment you receive notice of union organizing, and how to strategically structure your organization to avoid the likelihood of smaller micro-bargaining units.

You will also learn practical approaches that you might use to address difficult employee relations issues that surface during union organizing campaigns, and how to use social media and technology to your advantage.

Attendees will learn through thought-provoking scenarios that raise some of the most challenging labor issues faced by employers during a labor organizing drive. You will also learn how to prepare for "quickie" elections that may occur within 14 to 28 days of a petition. We will provide you with the tools to prepare for a shortened election cycle.

Whether you have extensive experience in labor organizing, or have never experienced a union campaign, this conference is right for you and your team. You will be an active participant in every sense under the pressures and time constraints of union organizing. You will create and draft material, direct management teams and react to employment issues, all of which have both a practical and legal impact on the organizing attempt.

Cocktail Party
6:00 PM - 7:30 PM

DAY 2

Breakfast
7:30 AM - 8:30 AM

8:30 AM to

ABOUT JACKSON LEWIS' LABOR PRACTICE Jackson Lewis is a law firm that offers legal advice to employers through the many laws that impact every aspect of an employer's decision and ability to develop and implement a comprehensive preventive labor relations program. ■ Jackson Lewis has been retained to offer legal advice to many employers who have succeeded in winning NLRB elections or in averting union elections altogether. ■ Our labor attorneys have represented clients in thousands of matters before arbitrators, mediators, the National Labor Relations Board, state labor boards, government agencies, and state and federal courts. ■ On a daily basis, we offer legal advice and counsel to employers regarding corporate campaigns, neutrality agreements, union organizing, protected concerted activity, social media, NLRB elections, contract negotiations, grievance and arbitration proceedings, unfair labor practices, traditional and third party economic activity pressures (such as picketing, bannering or hand billing), and public appeals, work stoppages, purchase/sales, reductions and reorganizations, as well as the entire range of pre- and post-hire employee relations issues.

This workshop will be presented by ED CHEROF, CHAD RICHTER, JONATHAN SPITZ, and MICHAEL STIEF, Principals with Jackson Lewis, who together have presented hundreds of programs over the years to advise organizations like yours that seek to remain union free.
